CONGRESS FORECAST.

Legislation Laid Out by Our National Lawmakers.

BOTH BODIES READY FOR WORK.

Bills Will Be Passed Through Both Houses as Rapidly as Possible—The Extra Session Has Paved the Way For Work—Some Hesitation in the Senate. Probable Program of Both Houses.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The regular, or long session of congress, as it is called, because there is no constitutional limitation upon the period of its duration, opens at noon today. The leaders and a large majority of the members of both houses are here to participate in the opening ceremonies, and President McKinley has made the journey to Washington from the bedside of his dying mother that his absence might not delay the national legislature at its assembling. The extra session robs the opening of the regular session of the excitement and interest which usually attaches to it. On the eve of a regular session ordinarily Washington thrills with excitement. The hotel lobbies surge with place hunters in the wake of the various candidates for speaker, clerk, doorkeeper, etc., the members are struggling for committee assignments, and the air is full of rumors and plots and counterplots. But as the house was completely organized at the extra session and all the committee assignments were made then, beyond the natural stimulus produced by the returning statesmen, the regular hangers-on of legislation and the outlining of schemes by members of the "third house" or lobby, Washington is tranquil.

The program at the house is very simple, and beyond the spectacular show which it offers to the curious, has in itself little attraction. The house will be called to order by the speaker, who, after the chaplain's invocation, will direct the clerk to call the roll. This having been accomplished and the presence of a quorum demonstrated, the clerk will be directed to notify the senate that the house is ready for business, and a committee will be appointed to wait on the president. After that there will be a recess to await the arrival of the president's annual message, which will be read upon its reception and be followed by an adjournment until Tuesday. This is the regular routine, and unless something unforeseen occurs will not be departed from.

It is the intention of the house leaders to proceed with the business of the session as rapidly as possible. The committees will begin their labors this week, and as all of them have more or less bills on hand which were introduced at the extra session, there will be no lack of material for the house to work on after the committee operations have begun. The appropriations committee has been at work for 10 days and Chairman Cannon expects to pass at least two of the regular budgets before the holidays—the legislative, executive and judicial and the pensions appropriation bills. One or the other of these bills, it is expected, will be reported by Wednesday, and the end of the week promises to see the house down to business.

Among the early general measures to receive consideration will be the bankruptcy bill. Whether it will be the Nelson bill, which passed the senate at the last session or a modification of the Torrey bill, depends on the temper of the judiciary committee, which will submit the measure to the house. Beyond doubt, there will be several resolutions of inquiry during the first week, which may be more or less sensational, and some of the radical pro-Cuba members will attempt to get consideration from a Cuban resolution before the foreign affairs committee. Congressman Livingston of Georgia is one of these. But owing to the nature of the house rules, all these hasty efforts will prove abortive, and they probably will take their regular course.

There will be nothing except indisposition upon the part of members to prevent the senate's entering promptly upon its work upon convening, as there is a calendar ready made for it with about 800 bills reported from committees during the special session.

With the message read it will remain for the senate to decide whether it shall enter seriously upon the work of the session after today or begin a system of delay intended to throw all important questions over beyond the Christmas holidays. The indications are now for a little more activity than usual during the pre-holiday session. This is largely due to the fact that the supporters of the administration and advocates of annexation are very anxious to secure the earliest possible consideration of the treaty with Hawaii. Senator Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, announces his purpose of pressing annexation at the earliest possible moment, but it is probable that the matter will not be taken up seriously until the committee can have a meeting and decide upon details of procedure. The committee will be called together on Wednesday for this purpose.

One point which the committee will be called upon to decide is whether to proceed to ratify the treaty of annexation or to annex the islands by resolution. The annexationists have lost some votes during the vacation and there is now apprehension that the two-thirds vote necessary to assure the ratification can not be secured. No satisfactory canvass is possible until all the senators arrive, and if it is then made manifest that the necessary two-thirds vote can not be secured, it is likely that the proceeding by means of resolution, which would require only a majority vote, will be inaugurated. Some members of the foreign relations committee who favor annexation advocate this course, because they say they see no reason for traversing the same ground twice, as they would be compelled to do in case the matter should be first considered in executive session, fail there, and then be taken up in the form of a resolution in open senate and house.

The immigration bill, for which Senator Lodge stands sponsor, is practically at the head of the senate legislative calendar, and will be considered early in the session. Senator Lodge has repeated his intention of pressing the bill, but he will not antagonize the Hawaiian treaty with it. The first bill on the calendar is Senator Gbar's measure providing for the adjustment of the Pacific railroad debt, but the sale of the Union Pacific doubtless will have the effect of causing the temporary withdrawal of this bill and the substitution of others. Of the 800 bills on the calendar about 200 are private pension bills, and all of these probably will be disposed of at one sitting when taken up. There are also several hundred recess appointments to be considered in executive session.

It is not probable that much will be done in the way of legislation during the present week. There will be an adjournment today after receiving the message, and as there is no disposition to press the Hawaiian matter until the foreign relations committee agrees upon a line of action, the indications now are that it will not be taken up in the senate before next week.

WRECK OF TROLLEY CARS.

Three Persons Killed and a Number Injured Near Detroit.

DETROIT, Dec. 6.—Two suburban cars, carrying 20 passengers and running at a speed of 25 miles an hour, collided on the Detroit and Oakland Electric railroad at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The result was that three men were instantly killed and a score of persons injured, 10 of them seriously.

The dead are:

John Savage, superintendent of the road.

Charles L. Whitehead, motorman.

John Kelly of Detroit, book agent.

The injured are:

Frank McHugh, motorman, leg broken and internally injured.

Louis Harnock, seriously bruised and internally injured.

Mrs. John Doty of Pontiac, two ribs broken and otherwise injured.

Aged mother of Mrs. John Doty of Pontiac, badly crushed and leg broken.

John F. Madden of Leonard, legs and arms badly bruised.

Peter Hempel of Detroit, hole cut in leg and face cut.

Mrs. E. H. Smith of Detroit, legs and face badly bruised.

Warner Goodale of Lapeer, severely bruised.

Mrs. Warner Goodale, face cut and body badly bruised.

A. E. Robertson of Walnut, Oakland county, leg badly cut, hand crushed and shoulder bruised.

John Riegel of Pontiac, compound fracture of leg.

A half dozen others were more or less hurt by broken glass and bruised.

According to the schedule, a car leaves each end, Detroit and Pontiac, every hour, and there are three sidings along the road. Saturday the cars were behind time. The one bound southward for Detroit had passed an out-bound car at the switch two miles from Pontiac, the crew apparently being ignorant of the fact that another out-bound car was approaching them less than two miles distant, although it is claimed that they should have known it from orders sent from Birmingham. The weather was foggy and the rails slippery from the sleet which had been falling.

The collision came near a gravel pit about midway between Pontiac and Birmingham, at the foot of two steep grades, down which the fated cars ran at full speed. The impact was terrible. The cars were driven half through each other and crushed to pieces.

The company officials are investigating as to the responsibility of the disaster.

The Detroit, Birmingham and Pontiac road is a separate suburban enterprise. Its cars enter the city over the Woodward avenue street car line.

RACE BETWEEN STEAM AND FIRE.

Twelve Men Narrowly Escape Death on Lake Michigan.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Twelve men, composing the crew of the steamer George W. Morely, had a race with death on Lake Michigan yesterday evening. Fire broke out in the hold of the vessel, seven miles off Evanston. All steam was crowded on, the safety valves were tied down, and with the men working like trojans in the blinding smoke, the run for shore commenced. As the flames burst through the cabin land was reached and the crew was saved.

The Morely was bound from Milwaukee to Chicago without a cargo. Seven miles off Evanston the explosion of a lantern in the holds started the blaze. The crew was turned into a fire brigade, but the flames, it was soon seen, were beyond control and the race between steam and fire was ordered. The bow of the boat was pointed toward Evanston under full head of steam. Meantime the crew kept up a steady stream of water into the hold. But the fire gained rapidly. The stokers, almost smothered by smoke, piled on coal and tied down the safety valves. Just as the crew were becoming discouraged with the unequal battle the keel touched ground. Life savers took off the almost exhausted crew. A moment later the flames burst out of the cabin and soon destroyed the upper works.

MORGAN RECAPTURED

The Triple Murderer Once More Behind the Bars.

TAKEN WITHOUT A STRUGGLE.

People of Spencer Threaten to Lynch Him, But No Serious Effort Was Made to Carry Out the Threat—The Hanging Will Likely Come Off According to the Previous Program.

SPENCER, W. Va., Dec. 6.—John Morgan, the murderer of the Green family in Jackson county, who escaped from jail at Ripley Friday morning, was captured at Walton, a small town 12 miles from here, about an hour before dark Saturday evening. The capture was made by John R. Camp, a constable of Jackson county, who had been hot on the trail of the prisoner for the past 10 hours.

When Morgan first caught sight of Camp he started to run, but at command of Camp to halt he obeyed. Morgan trembled like a leaf as Camp approached him, and was as meek as a lamb while a search of his person was being made. Morgan had no firearms of any description nor anything else about him save about one day's provisions, an extra shirt, pair of pantaloons, and $7 in money. Morgan pleaded with the officer to protect him in case of violence on the part of citizens.

Camp at once went to a livery stable, and, after summoning four strong men as guards, secured a survey, and the prisoner and five other men departed at once for this city. At Walton but few people were aware that Morgan had been captured until officials had started with him for this place. As soon as a telephone message was received here telling of Morgan's capture, the news spread like wildfire, and in less than half an hour hundreds of excited persons were running about the streets all eager for information concerning the capture, and especially as to whether or not any one had been killed, as a large number of Spencer inhabitants were assisting in the search.

The crowds continued to grow larger upon the streets, notwithstanding the fact that rain was coming down in torrents. At a way point, six miles out, a telephone message was received at 7 o'clock that the prisoner and party had passed there bound for Spencer, and that they would arrive here by 8 o'clock. The fact that he was to be brought to this town caused still greater excitement, and soon people began congregating in groups, and lynching talk was heard on every hand.

The mayor and several other officials at once began pleading with the infuriated citizens to let the law take its course, as the man had scarcely two weeks to live anyway. This allayed excitement to a great extent, but it was deemed best by the officials of Spencer to make an effort to head off Constable Camp and his party, and guard the prisoner in the woods outside of town until daybreak.

Camp was met two miles out of town, but he would not submit to their request, and said in a determined tone that John Morgan would sleep in Spencer jail that night, and that if an attempt was made to lynch him, that he himself would die protecting him. The carriage with its occupants then proceeded on the journey here, but on reaching a point within a half mile of the city limits all occupants left the vehicle, and the prisoner was taken a circuitous route through open fields and the party entered the city almost undetected.

When within half a square of the county jail Morgan was detected, and word was at once passed along the line of excited citizens. The five guards, as well as several Spencer officials, completely surrounded the prisoner as he walked through the streets, all carrying firearms of large caliber. Many citizens cried: "There goes the villain!" "Lynch him!" "Hang him tonight!" "Hang him now!"

No time was lost in rushing the prisoner into the jail, and when the massive iron door swung to, a feeling of relief was plainly visible on the face of Morgan, as well as all the officers who had him in charge. The jail is strongly guarded, and if any effort is made to lynch him or do other violence, great bloodshed will be the outcome. No one is allowed within 60 yards of the jail at night save guards.

As yet Morgan refuses to talk about his escape from Ripley jail or tell anything of his travels since that time.

WILLIAM BLAKE DEAD.

Went West With Fremont and Planted Old Glory on Pike's Peak.

POMONA, Cal., Dec. 6.—William Blake, the first white settler in what is now Pomona county, is dead. He was born in New York city and was a member of the troops that were with Fremont on his first expedition across the plains. He assisted as lieutenant in the United States army in planting the stars and stripes first on Pike's Peak.

He came to California with Fremont in 1847, and was a participant in the struggle about Monterey and Santa Cruz that wrested California from Mexico. He bore dispatches from General Fremont to Commodore Sloat in negotiations for the transfer of the state from the Mexican to the United States government.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 6.—The warehouse of Julius De Long & Company, hair, felt and carpet lining manufacturers, on Concord street, Allegheny, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is estimated at $50,000; insured. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

GRIGGS IN THE CABINET.

Appointment Officially Announced From the White House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—It was officially announced at the White House upon the return of the president that Governor John W. Griggs of New Jersey has been tendered and has accepted the office of attorney general of the United States, which will be vacated by the nomination of Attorney General McKenna to be associate justice of the supreme court. It has not been settled when Governor Griggs shall assume his new office, but it is probable that the date will be about the beginning of the new year.

GOVERNOR GRIGGS.

Governor John William Griggs was born in Newton, Sussex county, N. J., July 10, 1849. He was graduated from Lafayette college in 1868, and became a law student in the office of Hon. Robert Hamilton at Newton. In 1871 he removed to Paterson, where he entered the office of the late Soerates Tuttle. He was admitted to the bar that year, and together with Mr. Tuttle formed the firm of Tuttle & Griggs. A few years later he opened an office on his own account.

He was elected to the New Jersey assembly in 1875, and was re-elected two years later. In the latter year the house was equally divided, and he became leader on the Republican side, this brought him forward. He was re-nominated for another term, but was defeated. He was elected counsel for the board of free holders of Passaic county and city counsel of Paterson, which office he held until 1882, when he was elected to the state senate. He was re-elected state senator and became president of the senate in 1886. He was delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention in 1888. In 1895 Governor Werts of New Jersey offered Mr. Griggs a place on the supreme court bench of that state, which Griggs declined to accept. Next year he was elected governor of New Jersey.

His wife was Miss L. Elizabeth Trice of Cleveland. He has two sons and four daughters.

WILL NOT AID LUETGERT.

Professor Long Refuses to Give Expert Testimony at the Second Trial.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—The defense in the Luetgert case is likely to be greatly hampered in the matter of expert testimony. Professor John H. Long of the Northwestern university has practically refused to have any connection with the present trial.

For his services on the former trial Professor Long was paid $300. In his researches he spent much more than this sum. According to the attorneys for the defense, there is no money available to recompense him for any further services. Owing to his college duties now, Professor Long does not feel that he would be warranted, it is said, in neglecting work for which he is paid in the interest of other persons.

Luetgert will take the witness stand and tell his story regarding the disappearance of his wife on May 1. Attorney Harmon, for the defense, decided on this course last night. Luetgert was very desirous of testifying at the first trial and the refusal of his counsel to allow it was probably the chief cause for the latter's withdrawal from the case.

LAKE STEAMER MISSING.

The Lackawanna of Buffalo Probably Frozen in the Ice.

MARINETTE, Wis., Dec. 6.—There are fears for the safety of the big steamer Lackawanna of Buffalo. She passed through here Thursday on her way to Green bay. She has not yet reached that port and the tug Nau of this city has been unable to sight her after several trips out in the ice.

The steamer Russia was here yesterday and left to search for the Lackawanna. A report received here was that the Lackawanna was frozen in the ice near Red river.

The Lackawanna belongs to the Delaware and Lackawanna railway line.

Fire in New York City.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Fire last night did $125,000 damage in the 5-story stone building at 148 Buane street, occupied by Julius Wile, Brother & Company, liquor dealers; Rice Brothers & Tiffany, manufacturers of perfumery; J. L. Alboes, dealer in atomizers, and the Whiting Paper company. Twelve engines fought the fire, which was difficult to control.

Howe Has No Followers.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 6.—E. L. Howe, the Wichita mountain boomer, who has been here three weeks seeking to organize a party, has left for Oklahoma City, O. T., without a single follower.

LYING UNCONSCIOUS.

Mother McKinley Alive, but Slowly Wasting Away.

CAN NOT LAST MUCH LONGER.

She Has Partaken of No Nourishment Since She Was Stricken Last Thursday Morning—The President Returned to Washington, but Will Be Back in Canton Tomorrow Morning.

CANTON, O., Dec. 6.—Mother McKinley is still alive. Her condition has continued one of steadily wasting away, the constitution growing weaker hourly under the assault of the disease. The family are watching by the bedside, prepared for the end at any moment.

There is still a possibility that she may survive several days, or even longer, but those who have been at the bedside most constantly have the least hope of such a result. They have seen the patient weaken so steadily that they can not hope that she will much longer endure.

Communication was established with the White House as soon as the president arrived there yesterday, and a telegraph wire is constantly open to Washington to advise the president of every occurrence in the sick room. Besides this he has several times talked with his brother Abner by telephone.

Dr. Phillips, the attending physician, said he could report nothing particularly new. There had been no notable change in the patient. She had continued to grow weaker in the same manner, at about the same rate as during the past few days. He was satisfied that this condition would prevail to the end. He said: "The case is one in which we must be prepared for the end at any moment. When the end comes it will merely be the passing out of the comatose condition in which she now rests to the sleep of death. There will be no rally, no more conscious periods, no final struggle."

The patient has taken no nourishment since Thursday. It can not be administered by ordinary methods, and the case is one in which heroic methods of administering food are not regarded justifiable. They could not restore health, would be distressing and annoying, and might hasten the end.

PRESIDENT IN WASHINGTON.

All Arrangements Made For His Return to Canton.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President McKinley accompanied by Assistant Secretary Day, arrived at Washington over the Pennsylvania railroad at 7:40 Sunday morning. He was met at the station by Secretary Alger, Secretary Bliss and Secretary Porter, and driven to the White House. The president had received two telegrams en route to Washington reporting the condition of his mother, but he was anxious for later news, so Secretary Porter stopped at the telegraph office on the way from the station to inquire for any dispatches that might be waiting. There was no news, however, so the party proceeded to the White House, where breakfast was had.

In the middle of the forenoon a message was received from Abner McKinley, at Canton, saying that the president's mother was resting in about the same condition as when he left Canton; sleeping and unconscious. She might last through the day, or even one or two days longer, but was liable to die at any moment.

Arrangements have been made for the return trip to Canton this evening. The president, Mrs. McKinley and a party of half a dozen close friends and relatives will leave Washington at 7:20 o'clock, occupying a special car attached to the regular Pennsylvania railroad train, and arriving in Canton about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

BIG STRIKE THREATENED.

Plate Glass Plants Having Trouble With Their Employees.

ANDERSON, Ind., Dec. 6.—State labor commissioners have been summoned to take charge of the Pittsburgh plate glass plants at Elwood. Two hundred polishers and grinders are out, and it is feared the strike will close all of the company's plants, nine in number. The company has attempted to put new working rules into effect at all the plants and the workers protest.

Unless the labor commissioners are able to bring about an early settlement, it looks as if all the workers at Elwood, 800 in number, would walk out this week and call out the 7,000 in the other plants belonging to the company.

STORM OVER ITALY.

A Vast Amount of Property Destroyed, but No Lives Lost.

ROME, Dec. 6.—Torrential storms have prevailed for three days over large parts of Italy. In the bay of Naples 25 merchantmen have been wrecked, though there has been no loss of life, and several houses on the sea front have collapsed.

Considerable damage has been done here and in the district around the city. Almost all parts of Italy have suffered in a measure, and railway communication has been seriously interrupted. The harbor of Portici, on the bay of Naples, has been greatly damaged, and it is feared that there has been some fatalities there.

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Professor Engen Zintgraf, the well known African traveler, died yesterday at the island of Teneriffe of malaria.

BIMETALLISM.

In the October "Forum" appears an article in favor of bimetallism by Edward Tuck, a retired New York banker, who has made the monetary question a special study for many years. He corrects some prevalent misconceptions in defining the issue, as follows:

In studying the question of bimetalism one should keep clearly in mind: First, that money is not the value for which but the value by which commodities are exchanged and debts are paid. Money is only a counter, a marker, a measure of value and is not by nature value itself. Second, that the precious metals, gold and silver, acquire their great worth because they are used as money—not that money as money derives its value from the material of which it is made. As Paulus, the great jurist, says: "Money circulates with a power which it derives not from its substance but from its quantity. Third, the material of which money is made, as pointed out by Professor Bain, is not in itself the standard but the register in which the standard is recorded. The material of money bears a somewhat similar relation to value that the dial of a clock does to time. Hence the term "double standard" is an erroneous one. It is not the standard that is double but the metals in which the standard is registered. The two metals conjointly, possessing equally the debt-paying function at a fixed ratio of weight, form one standard, one money. Daniel Webster understood this, as his careful language unmistakably indicates. His words are: "Gold and silver * * * constitutes the legal standard of value." It was to correct the misconception caused by the use of this misnomer, "double standard," that Cerinsechi originated, in 1869, the name "bimetalism," which covers the real principle at issue as perfectly as any single word can do. It is impossible to have any standard of value that will be absolutely invariable, as the numbers of mankind, as well as the activity of industry and commerce, can never be fixed. Variations in the amount of existing money, variations in the amount of transactions requiring money, variations in the efficiency of credit contrivances for economizing the use of money cannot exactly coincide. Both theory and experience demonstrate, however, that a standard based upon the aggregate mass of the two metals is less variable and therefore more equitable than a standard based upon each metal singly, because the total monetary mass of the two combined is subject to less proportionate change in quantity from the varying production of different periods than is the mass of either metal alone. Moreover it is a mathematical impossibility to maintain even an approximately stable standard of value while two unrelated and discordant monometallisms prevail among intertrading nations. To secure stability the link between those systems, which virtually secured to the commercial world up to 1873 one bimetallic money, must be re-established.

The distribution of the Federal offices has disrupted the Republican party in Kentucky as much as the wrangle between the Hunt-writes and Bradleyites. In fact, the fight between these factions had its origin in schemes to "hog" the "pie." Circuit Judge T. Z. Morrow gives out an interview in which he attacks the Hunter-Debow faction bitterly for its effort to side track R. D. Hill for District Attorney. After some severe strictures on the "gang" Judge Morrow says that if the President proposes to take up Hunter's personal quarrels there will not be enough Republicans left in Kentucky in the next two years to furnish election officers.

Low Moral Tone at Washington.

(Dallas, Tex., News.)
 The moral atmosphere in Washington is absolutely stifling. Many an honest, decent fellow has gone to Washington to represent his people only to ruin himself, morally, mentally and physically. If the people of this country knew the inside history of their government at Washington, the manner in which legislation is manipulated by the most dangerous and corrupt influences of this age, the social and political iniquities familiar to every Congressman and the debauchery which stalks abroad in every department they would give that burg a shaking up it has not known for many a day.

The Charles L. Anderson farm of 92 acres south of this city was sold Saturday at Master Commissioner's sale to Messrs. J. C. Jefferson and Charles Biggers for $75.60 per acre.

A Clever Trick.

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Any body can try it who has lame back and weak kidneys, malaria or nervous troubles. We mean he can cure himself right away by taking Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to the liver and kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures constipation, headache, fainting spells, sleeplessness and melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative, and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c. a bottle at J. Jas. Wood's drug store.

AFTER THIRTY-THREE YEARS.

Comrades in the Late War Locate Each Other and Write of the Changes Time Has Wrought.

Major John Walsh, of this city, and William G. Walker, of East Nottingham, N. H., were members of the same company and tent-mates during the late war. When peace was at last restored each went his way and for thirty-three years neither heard of the other. Recently Major Walsh succeeded in locating his old comrade, and the following letter shows with what kindred feeling these old soldiers remember each other. It was this attachment for each other that brought about the organization known as the G. A. R., and for the meeting of which most every big city in the Union is contending every year, because of its universal strength and the vast number of people it brings together at these yearly re-unions. Distance will not keep them apart:

EAST NOTTINGHAM, N. H., Nov. 30, 1897.
 Dear Old Friend Johnnie Walsh: Your letter of November 10th came to hand all right, and I have answered it more than a thousand times in my mind, but of course that did not reach you; and I have thought over so many different things that I wanted to tell you that I just got tired out and couldn't write anything, but now I have got started you will very likely get tired reading my letter, for it is not a bit like what I could say to you if we could be face to face and grasp each other by the hand. I hope you will pardon all mistakes I make, for I am a great blunder-buss and no good at anything these days. I am injured on both sides, brought on by that horse kicking me in the stable at New Orleans while I was doing stable duty. I don't know whether you will remember the circumstances or not, but the company were all present getting ready for the Red River Camp. My wound also troubles me much and I am quite deaf and have been ever since my confinement in the stockade in Texas, when captured in our first fight. I have just one tooth in my head and I am old and grey, and good for nothing, but I am just the same in mind and spirit as I was when you and George Crockett and Louis Vane and Arthur Hall were my boys, and we fell as if we could lick anything that could come before us. Well, Johnnie, it is over thirty years since that time and since the war ended and what a change! Sometimes I shed tears when I think of those times of the past. I can see Company B, what a fine body of men, when we were encamped at Boxford,—all full of life and health and fun, and it only looks like yesterday. But what kind of a muster could we make now out of our hundred healthy able-bodied men, if Al Morse should call the roll? You are a fortunate man, Johnnie, to think that you came out of the war so well as you did. Thank God for it.

Now I will tell you what I can about the boys. I have been living here for a little over six years. Before this I lived in Philadelphia for more than twenty years, and while there did not hear much about Company B, but the first Memorial Day after I came here I went to Lawrence, Mass., to see if I could find any of the boys. The first one I met was McQueney. He looked older of course, but he was just the same in other respects, and could keep step the same as he could at Boxford, by kicking the man's heels in front of him and getting his heels kicked by the man behind him. He belongs to the Grand Army and gets a pension of eight per month. I saw John Morgan. Do you remember him and Pettigrew, Willard Foster, Major Noyes and Wm. Merrell? Major Noyes is living in Boston at 43 Milk street. R. E. Elliott is his business partner. A. D. Elliott is in Lawrence at 108 Amesbury street. He told me that they were getting up a history of our regiment, the Third Massachusetts, and he said he would see that you got one. I am living in a small house and we have about five acres of land. With this and my pension of twelve dollars per month we make out to get enough to eat, and have no reason to complain. I am glad you are settled in life and I think from your letter that you have a good wife and a nice family. May God bless you and them and may none of them ever be called to go to war, but may they all live to a good old age and be happy, is the prayer of your old tent-mate.

WILLIAM G. WALKER.
 P. S.—Now, Johnnie, this is a mere nothing to what is in my mind and heart, and it is a poor answer to your letter, but I hope you will write me often and don't wait for me to answer, as I tell you I am old and good for nothing.

The Greatest Discovery Yet.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain cure for coughs, colds, whooping cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at J. Jas. Wood's drug store.

THE discovery of a new counterfeit $5 silver certificate, series of 1891, with a portrait of Grant, is announced by the Treasury secret service. This note is neither as long nor as wide as the genuine. Grant's portrait is different in some details from that in the genuine, and on the whole it has a flat appearance.

A BELLEVUE SEANCE

In Which an Ex-Maysvillian Figured Prominently—A "Spirit" Gave a Warm Embrace by W. N. Rudy.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

There is a limit to the amount of squeezing that can be given ghosts in some spiritualistic circles. At least such was the experience of W. N. Rudy, of 93 Lafayette avenue, Bellevue, Ky.

Some time ago Rudy went to Mrs. Gehring, the Bellevue medium, for an independent slate writing test. Rudy was asked to place between two slates a piece of paper upon which a picture was to appear. He noticed that the paper handed him contained a dirty streak. He stood upon the slates supposed to contain the paper, and when they were finally opened the paper inside contained a picture, but had no streak or mark upon it.

From this Rudy concluded that the paper had been switched on him, and that the whole thing was a trick. He went home and told his wife about it. They were both invited to attend a materialization seance, at which he was given to understand that his first wife would appear and speak with him. His second wife went along.

It should be observed, however, that Rudy is a powerful man physically. He made up his mind that if his first wife did materialize he would give her a terrible hugging. This he did, and when the spook came out to shake hands with him, he grabbed her in a vise-like embrace and hugged her for dear life. The spook turned out to be of frail creation, and it was not long before he had that ghost yelling bloody murder for all she was worth. It soon developed that the ghost was none other than the medium, and now Rudy is prohibited from attending the seances, on the ground that he is not sufficiently developed.

ANOTHER SAD DEATH.

Miss Anna L. Murphy Succumbs to an Attack of Erysipelas, Dying Suddenly Last Evening.

The many friends of Miss Anna L. Murphy heard with sincere sorrow of her death, which occurred suddenly last evening shortly after 6 o'clock, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, on Vine street.

She was stricken with erysipelas of the face eight days ago, and while her condition had been very serious the sad news of her sudden death came as a shock to her friends.

Deceased was twenty years old the twentieth of last June, being just at that age when life seemed its brightest and most joyous. Hers was a lovely Christian character, and her seemingly untimely death is sincerely mourned by all who knew her.

The funeral occurs Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church, with services conducted by Rev. A. T. Ennis. Burial at Washington.

THE BATTLE SHIP KENTUCKY.

Colonel Baldwin One of the Commissioners Named by the Governor to Look After Arrangements For Launching of Vessel.

Governor Bradley has sent a letter to Hon. James F. Buckner, Jr., of Louisville, stating that at the request of the Louisville Board of Trade, which has been largely instrumental in inducing the Navy to name one of its great battle ships for our State, he has appointed Commissioners to look after and have charge of arrangements to make a proper recognition of the handsome compliment paid Kentucky.

From the State at large the Commissioners are J. O. S. Blackburn, Versailles; John Young Brown, John M. Atherton and A. E. Wilson, of Louisville; Thomas Z. Morrow, Somerset, and John W. Yerkes, Danville.

From the Ninth district the Commissioners are John P. McCartney, Flemingsburg; W. W. Baldwin, Maysville; G. R. Keller, Carlisle.

A HORSE with saddle and bridle on was seen floating down the North Fork near Young's tollgate early Saturday morning. He was alive, but barely able to keep afloat. The creek had risen that night on account of the heavy rain, and it is thought that some luckless rider may have become engulfed in the raging waters in attempting to cross the stream at some ford above.

Farming In Georgia.

Correspondents of the Atlanta Constitution have described two model farms they visited in the state whose citizens call Chicago the Atlanta of the north. These accounts show that in Georgia at least there is as much money in farming as in anything else if the agriculturist uses his brains.

One of the farms was a large cotton plantation in Sumter county. Its owner, Mr. Neill Ray, is a native southerner and a self made man. He did a good job in the making too. When he became of age, he bought a farm for $5,000, paying $2,000 cash. The rest was covered by mortgage. Ray worked out of that mortgage when hundreds of farmers north and south were losing their lands and going into bankruptcy. By sheer grit and industry, with shrewd management, he got out of debt.

In the business of agriculture and that alone, mainly cotton raising, he became a rich man. Last year he sold $20,000 worth of cotton. His laborers are black. He does not find them either lazy or drunken. A negro and a male go together, and with this combination Mr. Ray makes his farming pay. He raises 25 acres of cotton for every mile. His laborers are summoned to and from work by a big bell, and they must answer it to the minute. As punctual to time and as faithful to hours as factory work people are the laborers on Ray's farm, and he requires them to be so. It is the only way to be successful, he says. After a tour of the farm he invited the correspondent, Mr. P. J. Moran, to dine with him at a table on which every article of food except the salt was raised on the farm itself.

The other model farm is described by Mr. Edwin R. Sharpe. The money that went into it originally was acquired in trade, but that makes it none the less self sustaining and successful now. It is near Carrollton, Ga., and is devoted mainly to stock raising and dairying, although there are on the farm a gristmill that pays the owner $1,200 a year and 2,000 fruit trees. The owner of the farm, Mr. Joseph Kingsbery, has been able to refute the notion that Jersey cows will not thrive in the south. He has a fine herd of registered Jerseys, also a large number of blooded horses and swine. The equine specialty of this beautiful place is fine driving horses, for which there is always a market. The father of the present owner bought the farm in 1827, riding to visit it upon a Morgan horse that traveled 90 miles a day. It is a pity there is not more of this game Morgan blood among horse stock of the present day. The fine old Morgan's descendants are on the Kingsbery farm to this day.

Not One-Fourth Insured.

TULSA, I. T., Dec. 6.—Fire originating in the general merchandise store of Price & Gillette yesterday afternoon, destroyed over $100,000 worth of property. Other losers are Fred J. Scott, Lynch Mercantile company, The Tulsa Banking company, the Commercial hotel, George B. Perryman, Lewis & Brobeck and Edgan Brothers. The insurance will not exceed $25,000.

Spain May Ask Damages.

MADRID, Dec. 6.—The Spanish government, it is semi-officially announced, has received details of the landing of an expedition in Cuba from the American steamer Dauntless, and it is understood the Spanish minister at Washington, Senor Dupuy de Lome, will shortly present in this connection a claim for damages from the United States.

HON. WALTER MATTHEWS was reported somewhat better at last accounts.

Prairie Fire In Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Dec. 6.—Saturday night a disastrous prairie fire raged in the county, where it fed on the high and dry grass, and was fanned by a strong south wind. The fire started near Ruth postoffice, near the county line, and swept with lightning speed. It was an exciting night among the farmers, who fought like demons to preserve their crops, the women and children assisting. The canyons running east and west along Trail creek finally stopped the fire, but only after serious property loss had been entailed. Many tales of narrow escapes are told.

Increase In Italian Immigrants.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The Prince line steamer Trojan Prince, which arrived yesterday from Leghorn, Genoa and Naples, brought from the latter port 1,008 steerage passengers, the greater portion of them being women and children. This is the largest number of Italian immigrants brought by any one steamer to this port in many months. The state of health on board was excellent.

Why is it that one man is old and decrepit at 45, and another hale and hearty at 80? It depends on the care he takes of himself. Often a man's body gets out of repair—the trouble grows until it lays him out in bed. Whenever a man feels that he is not as well as he ought to be, whenever he is listless, without energy and without vitality, whenever he finds that he is losing weight and that his ordinary work gives him undue fatigue, he needs Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If he keeps on working with his liver inactive and his blood impure—he keeps his nerves and his body under a constant nervous strain. He will not be hearty when he is old. The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures many so-called diseases because nearly all illness springs from the same thing—bad digestion and consequent impure blood. The "Discovery" makes the appetite good, the digestion strong, assimilation easy, and the blood rich and pure.

Benjamin H. Child and Edward C. Huxley have been appointed permanent receivers of the Kent & Stanley company (limited), manufacturing jewelers of Providence, R. I., and New York, upon the petition of the supreme court of the Rhode Island National bank, a creditor for $32,330. At the hearing it was stated that the company owed $1,800,000 and was hopelessly insolvent.

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETING.

Officers Chosen For Ensuing Year by the Maysville and Mason County Auxiliary.

The annual meeting of the Maysville and Mason County Auxiliary of the American Bible Society at the First Presbyterian Church last night was largely attended.

The address of the evening was by Rev. J. S. Sims of the M. E. Church, South, and was a most excellent and instructive one.

The President, Mr. J. E. Barbour, presented an interesting report for the past year.

The Nominating Committee reported the following officers for ensuing year:

President—J. M. Lane.
Vice Presidents—Pastors of co-operating churches of the city.

Treasurer and Depository—J. C. Pecor.
Secretary—James B. Wood.

Executive Committee—M. E. Church, South, G. W. Geisel; M. E. Church, Harry Richardson; First Presbyterian, R. A. Cochran; Church of the Nativity, W. H. Cox; Central Presbyterian, J. W. Piper; Mitchell Chapel, James Dawson; Sedden Chapel, Geo. N. Harding.

Fast Time.

A special train of four private cars was run at an unprecedented rate of speed between Pittsburgh and Chicago over the Pennsylvania road for the purpose of ascertaining the possibility of reducing the time of the limited express to twenty hours between New York and Chicago.

The train left Pittsburgh at 6:58 a. m. and arrived in Chicago at 5 o'clock p. m., making the 468 miles in 602 minutes. The same train left Chicago at 9 a. m., reaching Pittsburgh at 6:25 p. m., in 565 minutes, making the eastward run thirty-seven minutes sooner than the westward run, which breaks all previous records.

Acrostic.

[Exchange.]

If your tongue be in good condition for doing a little acrobatic work try reading the following word curiosity aloud. It may be familiar to some of you, for it is one of the treasures that we dug up out of an old scrap book:

If you stick a stick across a stick,
Or stick a cross across a stick,
Or cross a stick across a stick,
Or stick a cross across a cross,
Or cross a cross across a stick,
Or cross a cross across a cross,
Or stick a cross stick across a stick,
Or stick a crossed stick across a crossed stick,
Or cross a crossed stick across a cross,
Or cross a crossed stick across a stick,
Or cross a crossed stick across a crossed stick,
Would that be an acrostic?

CINCINNATI TOBACCO MARKET.

Falling Off in Offerings Last Week, But Greater Activity Than Usual at This Season of Year.

Actual sales.....	78,062	66,802
Receipts.....	77,392	63,259

The Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse company, in its circular for the week, has the following: There was a considerable falling off in the offerings during the past week, Wednesday being the only day with full sales. Still it can be said that there is much more activity in the market than usual at this time of the year, and a promise of a continuance of fair sales up to Christmas. Manufacturers are liberal buyers, and when they show any indifference the speculative element is ready to step in. Thus the market is pretty well sustained, and but little change in prices can be quoted.

There was no reduction in the stocks of the warehouses during the last two weeks, receipts having been quite liberal up to within the beginning of the past week, since when there have been only light shipments, and, as there are three weeks of sales in the present year as yet, the first of January will probably find us with lighter stocks than the beginning of the present month. The offerings showed only a small proportion of the better grades, and this fact probably accounts for the somewhat lower average which was realized.

There were some lots of the new crop which commanded unabated interest, and prices obtained were highly satisfactory in nearly every case, one crop lot of 5 hhds. from Carroll county bringing an average of 12c., the lower and medium grades selling highest in proportion, as will be seen by the range, which was from $7.15 to $14.75. These figures, if upheld, and we see no reason why they should not be, will induce early shipments, and the weather permitting, may expect the new crop in market ahead of the usual time.
